The city has yet to evaluate and evaluate the Barangay Peace and Order Committee (BPOC) of all barangays in the city of Baguio, which is one of the components for this year's search for the best barangay of 2017. Earlier, the evaluation team conducted an on-site visit to all barangays, evaluating and reviewing their performances on barangay administration and management; environmental management; social services; health, health and sanitary services; lupon tagapamayapa incentive awards (LTIA) and competitive edge. Recently, Mayor Mauricio Domogan formed a search committee for prominent BPOC that will conduct table assessments and visits and on-site checks at barangays. From July 11, the team will evaluate and verify their BPOC achievements and end on August 11. Barangai will be assessed based on the composition of their BPOC, the holding of a regular meeting proposed by bpoc policy approved by Sanguniang Barangay, the presence of a barangay peace and order and public safety plan (POPSP) and its reach, the result of the project's implementation in preventing crime, the performance of services like the lack of incidents of crime in their barangay, tanod regular ronda foot patrol , among others. Monitoring the performances of barangays aims to give general and special awards to the best performer of barangays and at the same time determine the strength and limitations of each barangay for improvement. In addition to the top three winners to search for the best performing barangay, the nine special awards will also give barangays with the best in LTIA, child-friendly, women, senior citizen, person with disabilities (PWD), environment, sanitation, nutrition and BPOC. The winner of the barangay will be recognised and awarded during Local Government Month this October. * Joe Arranz
